Where the Industry Meets: Workspace Design Show Delivers Innovation, Inspiration & Insights

Workspace Design Show once again raised the bar for workplace design events, bringing together over 5,000 professionals from 40+ countries. With sensory design at its core, the show offered a dynamic showcase of 500+ groundbreaking products, engaging design talks, and immersive installations.

Industry leaders sparked insightful discussions, while the debut of the Workplace Wellbeing Hero initiative honored those redefining workplace culture. As it continues to expand, Workspace Design Show remains the definitive platform and driving force behind the future of workplace design.

The highlight of Workspace Design Show is that it has been busy since the doors opened, making it a fantastic opportunity to showcase what we do. The attendees at the show are the right audience for us—architects, designers, and furniture dealers bringing their clients.

Workspace Design Show is a busy show always, with a diverse mix of attendees, including project managers, designers, contractors, and fantastic suppliers. Events like this are important because they showcase products, facilitate networking, and provide thought-provoking discussions through panel debates.

Honored to have been involved since Workspace Design Show's launch three years ago! It is exciting to see the show grow every year. What sets it apart is the mix of manufacturers, designers, and end-users, including clients. It keeps improving each year, thanks to our collective participation and celebration of the industry.

Workspace Design Show has been great to have face-to-face conversations with people I haven't seen in a long time. It is fascinating to observe how different companies and real estate firms approach workplace strategies.

Sonia Lamesa, Architect, Amazon

Workspace Design Show is the best place to hear insights on the latest trends, future workplace visions, and industry innovations. It is about collaboration—connecting with companies, learning from others, and integrating those learnings into our designs at tp bennett.

Luke Herring, Workplace Strategist,

We are proud to be partners and sponsors of Workspace Design Show this year. It is a fantastic opportunity to showcase our product, connect with clients, designers, and dealers, and strengthen relationships. The highlight of the Workspace Design Show is stepping out of the office, meeting new people, and engaging with like-minded professionals.
